

JimiMod / S. LaRue

I'm a photographer, have had some success including 2, one-man shows, working with D. Clemmer and JP Witkin regularly.

A musician with several releases, a few doing well, a couple doing VERY well (back when vinyl was popular), studio experience in front of the mic as well as behind it as an engineer and producer, molded/polished bands into working units.

++ Under the moniker of JimiMod I successfully distributed sound-design work to almost every nation on the globe and continue to work closely with a handful of film and gaming people, and am regularly called upon for compositional assistance.

Commercial artist, advertising design and copy, painter and sculptor, with, again, one-man shows of my work, one of which was sold exclusively to a single collector.

Writer in any number of literary disciplines, from social/political commentary, satire, philosophical essays, to novels, collections of a short stories and remain unpublished by choice.

These things are all I do, all day, every day. I live alone by choice, see no one in person, and distribute my work exclusively online. Not to do so would lead to the end of my usefulness.

I thought long and hard before leaving Freesound.org, considered turning my jewelry website <http://nativetreasuresonline.com> into a personal / vanity distribution point, with the data showing it would simply not work if going it alone.

I chose Internet Archive as a place to offer my work to a wider audience than previous. The idea behind IA is exactly what I support when considering the distribution of information, ideas, artistic endeavors of all kinds, ad nauseum, with the clincher being it is offered free to the public, as all the aforementioned should be.
